EVENT 19:30-21:30

PAIN AND PLEASURE

Our lives are spent avoiding emotional and physical pain. But what exactly is pain and how it is we've developed such varied interpretations to feel it? Join us for an evening of science and art collaborations which attempt to understand the phenomenon of pain.

13 MAY 2024

MUSIC TO YOUR EARS

With our ears so tuned to music, one false note can make the difference between a friction-inducing performance and audiences being left code. We'll explore improvisation which offers a solution and the possibility of originality...

14 MAY 2024

ROBOTS TAKING OVER

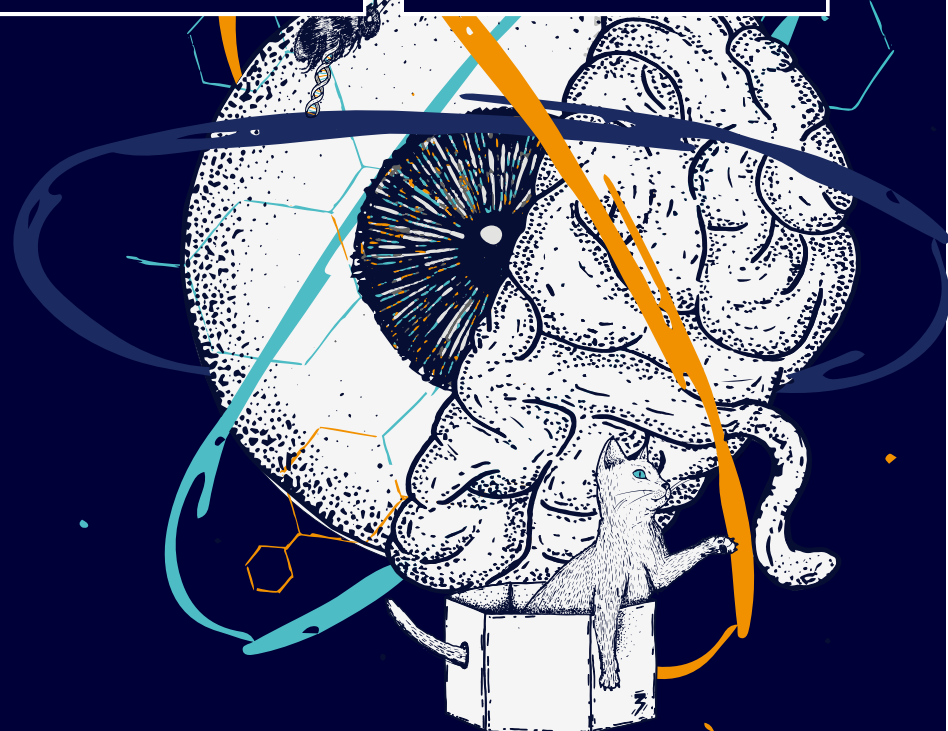

Scientists are continually trying to unlock the secrets behind movement to improve robot design and, although you may find them creepy, spiders are thought to be the key to this puzzle. Come and find out more about these creepy crawlies and technology.
